Expected to Walk Out Today if Their Demands Are

Not Granted. Salt Lake may have another strike on its hands before tonight.

The switchmen in the employment of the Denver & Rio Grande road, it is expected, will walk out some time today if their demands for higher wages are not granted by the officials of the road in Denver this morning. The grievance committee of the switchmen and the road officials were to meet at 10 o'clock this morning in Den-ver and on the outcome of this meeting lepends the strike question

Last night it was reported that the switchmen had decided not to wait for the conference to be held this morning, but had to decide to strike by midnight but hight had to decide to strike by midnight but hight. last night. A verification of the rumor could not be secured. Superintendent Stenger of the Salt Lake division of the road was in Bingham and the officials said they had not been advised of a possible strike last night. Should the switchmen go out there is little question but that freight traffic on the Denver & Rio Grande will be badly tied up. Local business men are somewhat worried over the situation, as freight tie up at this time means great in nience and less to them.

news service that has ever been established in this country.

W. E. Vigus of this city, who was for many years in the employ of the Western Associated Press, the California Associated Press and the present association, had charge of the business in the intermountain country for over eight years, with headquarters at Salt Lake. After the leased wires were first opened here on the 13th of March, 1894.

In an interview on the early history of the news service in the west, Mr. Vigus

"The newspapers in all the territory west of the Missouri river, prior to the establishment of the leased wire service, were furnished news through the California Associated Press, which purchased the right to take from the Western Associated Press at Chicago 5,200 words each night the day service being about each night, the day service being about

"This California Associated Press consisted of the principal papers in San Francisco, the Call, Union and Bulletin. The service was made up at Chicago and transmitted by the Western Union Telegraph company at a cost of 7 cents per word, and was then known as the "penny report west." This report was made exclusively for the San Francisco papers, but through the courtesy of the California Associated Press, a copy was dropped at Denver, Salt Lake, Sacramento and a few of the other principal points in the lected.

Then Came Leased Wires.

"From this same report Denver made up a short pony report which was transmitted to Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Trinidad and other points in Colorado. Later days looking over the field with a view to locating one of the concern's proposed branch factories in Salt Lake, but this has not been definitely decided. Thomas which was sent to all day papers west, including Parts and the Dents of the concern's proposed from Chicago to Denver, and then Dents of the concern and the Dents of the concern and the Dents of the Chicago to Denver, and then Dents of the Chicago to Denver, and the Dents of the Chicago to Denver and the Dents of the Dents of the Chicago to Denver and the Dents of ver made up a short day pony report, which was sent to all day papers west, including Butte, Helena, Spokane, Portland and Tacoma on the north. When the San Francisco Chronicle was first started, the older papers in San Francisco, having the regular Western Associated Press dispatches refused that paper the news of the California Associated Press and the paper was started on a special service which was filed at Chicago, but finally fought its way into the membership of the California association. At a later period the California Cal.; Pendleton and Olympia, Ore., and Associated Press was more with the membership of the California association. Associated Press was merged with the Associated Press of Illinois, which was the successor to the Western Associated Press and all western papers took that service on the same basis.

"The extension of the Associated Press leased wire to Denver resulted in a demand for a larger service in the growing west, but for many months the Western Union Telegraph company claimed that on account of the scarcity of wire facilities west of Denver, it was impossible to furnish the press with a leased wire west

The strike of operators on the Associated Press wires at 6:40 o'clock last Salt Lake, Sacramento, San Francisco, Portland, Tacoma and Seattle. This circuit was established at once and the Salt Lake Herald and other papers thereby had their news service increased from 5,200 words per night to something like 35,000 words. This severely taxed the financial resources of some of the smaller papers, but they paid the high price of the service and were rewarded by

"Pony Report" Made Up Here. "For several years after this night leased service was inaugurated, the small the news service in the west, Mr. Vigus day 'pony report' for the papers in the northwest was made up at Salt Lake. A limited day leased wire service was finally extended from Denver through Salt Lake to San Francisco, giving to the

"About this time the breaking out of the Spanish war caused an increased demand for a day news service and the day wire was put on full time from Denver to San Francisco. At the same time the night leased wire was discontinued north from San Francisco to Portland, Tacoma and Seattle and a circuit made up from Sait Lake, taking in Ogden, Anaconda, Butte, Helena, Spokane, Portland, Tacoma and Seattle, this being the longest circuit operated by the association. A day leased wire circuit was also taken, covering this same territory, which gave a first-class day news service to points that had previously been almost neg-

Cost Was Enormous.

"The phenominal growth of Utah and other western states made this news service almost imperative and notwithstanding the enormous cost for the news, the publishers in this territory insisted on keeping abreast with the most enterprising papers of the east.

"The Boise Statesman during all these years, has had an excellent and well se-lected report of about 10,000 words daily, which has been prepared by the Associated Press here and transmitted by the Western Union Telegraph company. During the years in which all these improve many other small cities, formerly beyond the reach of telegraph news, are all now being furnished with the current daily
